Hair code not specific

Cop's suspension reversed by board

by LUISA GINETTI

The one-day suspension of Des Plaines Patrolman Scott Broehl for allegedly violating the department's hair code was reversed Monday night by a unanimous vote of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

Broehl was suspended in September for having his hair hang over his ears. He was reinstated one day later after he agreed to comb his hair back behind his ears.

In reversing the suspension and granting Broehl full salary reimbursement for the day he was docked, the commission ruled the hair code is not specific in reference to hair length in regard to the ears.

THE COMMISSION said in part that the hair code does not specify or necessarily imply that hair may not extend over the ears, does not mention or make reference to any sketch to illustrate the order and the sketch does not specifically or by implication prohibit the wearing of hair over the ears.

The commission said that all witnesses at the Oct. 31 hearing on the suspension appeal testified that Broehl's hair was "neatly groomed" in accordance with the language of the code.

In ruling for Broehl, however, the commission added that the language "neatly groomed" in the code "is vague and subject to different reasonable interpretations."

As a result of the commission's ruling, Police Chief Arthur Hintz said after the meeting he would meet with City Atty. Charles Hug later this week to set down a more definitive order governing hair and facial appearance.

Although the present hair code came about through negotiations with the Combined Counties Police Assn. (CCPA), the department is not bound to renegotiate the matter and the chief has the authority to issue a new hair code standard without CCPA suggestions or prior approval.

MIKE ALBRECHT, president of the Des Plaines chapter of the CCPA, said the CCPA is pleased with the commission's decision, but added that the local would be against an arbitrary rewording of the hair code.

"I'm pleased with the decision because I think it was fair," Albrecht said. "We are in favor of a hair code and we think it should be more specific than saying neatly groomed, but if the general order is to be rewritten, we would like it renegotiated."

"We don't think hair over the ear is offensive to the community and if it is we would like the people to let us know," Albrecht added.

Broehl said he was pleased with the commission's decision. "I'm glad it's over with and that it went the way it did," he said. "The principle of it is that I should be able to wear my hair the way I want to as long as it's neat and trim."

Albrecht said he did not know how the commission decision would affect the suspension appeal of Patrolman Robert Neis, who was suspended for one day last week also for allegedly violating the hair code. Hintz has not yet ruled on Neis' appeal of the suspension.

Arrest Chicagoan for gun in auto

A Chicago man was arrested by Des Plaines police Sunday when they discovered a loaded revolver on the front floor of the man's car after he was involved in a traffic accident.

Donald F. Myers, 28, of 3443 N. Lowell, was chased by Patrolman Jerry Liggett when he sped past Liggett southbound on River Road. Myers' auto crashed into two utility poles south of Golf Road. When Liggett arrived at the scene he found the revolver on the floor in open view.

Myers was semi-conscious and taken to Holy Family Hospital for treatment of a fractured jaw and a bloody nose.

Police said Myers' firearm registration card had expired and he was arrested for unlawful use of a weapon. Myers was also cited for speeding. He is scheduled to appear Jan. 30 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court to answer both charges.

Police said Myers had an employee card with Special Security Police Inc., 549 W. Randolph St., Chicago, but his employment there could not be immediately confirmed.

But will they all be kept?

New Year's resolutions? They'll 'lose weight, quit smoking'—and hope for a good year in '75

by BETTY LEE

Half don't make them because they break them. Those who do make new year resolutions say 1975 will be a good year.

Persons interviewed Monday by The Herald say they will quit smoking, lose weight and make those other big and little changes to better lifestyles. Others say they would rather forego making promises to themselves because they always end up breaking them.

Resolutions for 1975:
• "One is to lose weight, about 25 pounds," said Jean Hall of Prospect Heights. She said she also wants to spend less money because of the tight economy.

• "To do better in school," said Barbara Lamey of Mount Prospect. "Just about all my resolutions have to do with school. I'd like to get along better with friends." Miss Lamey is a junior at Quincy College.

• Losing weight is a resolution made by Kathy Healy of Arlington Heights. "I'd just like to make life better all around."

• "I've been forced to make a resolution this year and that is to take a more relaxed view of things," said Thomas de Seve of Mount Prospect. de Seve added that his resolution is a doctor's advice for him to slow down because of a recent bout with illness.

"I've got to take a more relaxed outlook on the family and being more expressive within a diplomatic range, letting people know what I think," de Seve said.

• To quit smoking is Mike Bryant's resolution. "It costs money and it's a bad habit," he said. "I've quit occasionally, but it's just a dirty, expensive habit." Bryant is a former Arlington Heights resident visiting family and friends for the holidays.

• Gina Parsons, a 14-year-old student in Des Plaines, vows she will do better in school and go out with "better boys."

KATHY HEALY

"I don't make resolutions at New Year's," said James Dugan of Mount Prospect. "It usually seems to be the thing when people want to change their lives dramatically and that seems foolish to me," Dugan said.

Dugan said he makes changes when he believes they're necessary. "I don't sit down at one time of the year and make resolutions. Circumstances dictate."

• Lt. Lee Alfano of the Des Plaines Police Dept. resolves to "treat my fellow man the best way I know how."

• Louis Popp of Chicago said he couldn't think of a resolution to make, but added that winning in the Illinois Lottery would be a great way to start the New Year. "I just hope everything gets better," he said. "The economy is really bad."

• Mrs. Lynn Gardner of Wheeling said she started a self-improvement program five or six years ago. "I try to keep progress during those years," she said.

• "There are a jillion things on my mind but to say that I'm going to make one resolution is hard to say," Dave Netherland said, as he sat in Louie's Barber Shop in Mount Prospect. "The year has come up so fast I didn't even have the Christmas spirit."

There are those who apparently are content with the way things are, like Robert Rich of Mount Prospect. "I never make resolutions because I break them the same day," he said. "I live a non-corrupt life and I'm not going to change anything," he joked.

And then there's one woman at the Mount Prospect train station who firmly resolved: "I'm going to find a new husband."

Seniors need recreational facilities, task force told

The Des Plaines Community Development Task Force was told Monday night that the city needs additional recreational facilities, especially for senior citizens.

During a 25-minute public hearing, three persons presented suggestions for possible uses for the up to $2.5 million that the city stands to get under the U. S. Housing and Community Development Act.

The task force also was told the city should move to protect historic sites, create a local housing authority and provide more housing for senior citizens.

THE TASK FORCE is seeking to develop a housing assistance plan and a proposal for uses for the federal funds.

Public assistance in larger office

The Maine Township Public Assistance Office has moved to larger facilities at 2510 W. Dempster St. to accommodate an increased number of welfare applicants.

Township Supervisor James Dowd said the move to a larger office within the building was needed to provide more space for two full-time social workers. A year ago the township needed only one social worker to process all its requests for public aid, Dowd said.

The supervisor said the increase in the number of persons seeking public assistance is due to several prolonged strikes last summer and a downturn in the economy, resulting in many layoffs for extended periods.

The public assistance office will have a new phone number, 297-2433.

Thomas Mahon, city treasurer and president of the Des Plaines Park District, pushed for use of the funds to provide additional recreational facilities for senior citizens.

Mahon suggested the city purchase one of several vacant grocery stores in the downtown area to provide recreational facilities.

INCREASED ATTENTION for senior citizens also was among the suggestions advanced by the Des Plaines chapter of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Fran Lapidus outlined a five-point program for possible uses for the funds.

Besides additional senior citizen housing, she suggested the city develop more recreational areas along the Des Plaines River, work to preserve buildings with historical value, improve parking facilities and develop a housing authority.

She referred to a 1971 study by the league of housing conditions in the city and said there is a need for 200 units for low and moderate-income families in the city.

THE TASK FORCE also heard from Michael Glass, 2475 Seminary Ave., who also called for the creation of a housing authority.

He also suggested more stringent enforcement of city codes and concerted effort to remove dilapidated buildings in the city.

All of the comments made during the sessions will be reviewed by the task force at a meeting Thursday. The group has until Feb. 12 to complete its work. Once the plan is completed, the city council must review the document and send it on to the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development for final approval.

Two malls urged in Mount Prospect

Mount Prospect downtown commission members have apparently accepted a consulting firm's recommendation to revitalize the central business district by creating two malls in the downtown area. The commission chairman, Robert Bennett, said that while there has been a no vote, "It's just kind of there and I don't think anyone is upset with it." The commission will tour the downtown area Saturday to get a feel for the problems and needs of the central business district.

Area gymnast hurt in crash

A Northern Illinois University gymnast from Wheeling was seriously injured early Monday in a two-car crash that killed two other members of the NIU gymnastic team in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The injured gymnast was identified as Dennis Reiter, 18, of 182 Seventh St., Wheeling. The two dead youths were Gary Sorenson, 18, of Addison and Don Ranck, 18, of Itasca. Reiter was in fair condition later Monday at a Fort Lauderdale hospital.

Utility ruling reversed

The Illinois Appellate Court has reversed a ruling which would have awarded $385,000 to Citizens Utilities Co. for damages that resulted when the company had to close a sewage treatment plant in Hoffman Estates. The company had been awarded damages in a Circuit Court suit against the Metropolitan Sanitary District, charging the sanitary district with diverting sewage from the plant by building an interceptor sewer.

Village takes over fire duties

It took just six minutes Monday for the Village of Hoffman Estates to get itself a fire department. And when it did, the first call it answered was — you guessed it — a false alarm. The call to assist Schaumburg firemen came about the same time Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford was signing an order transferring responsibility for fire protection from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District to the village. The signing culminated an action that has been debated and studied for several years. Takeover of the fire district by the village was done partly because of an anticipated deficit in the fire district which the village hopes to wipe out with a 5 per cent utility tax.

'Bather' to lose covering

"The Bather," the concrete Picasso sculpture being constructed in Rolling Meadows will lose her cloak of wood Monday and stand exposed to the public for the first time. The wooden forms around the statue will be removed, and Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar will begin etching details on the sculpture with charcoal. Artisans poured concrete into the forms on Monday.

UMC goes to NORTAN

Officials of the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) announced Monday that the district will officially take over operation of United Motor Coach Co. on Wednesday. The move ends nearly a year of negotiations between transit district and bus company officials. The district agreed several months ago on a $1 million price tag but the take-over has been delayed by processing of the district's application for federal funds. Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTAN, predicted no immediate dramatic changes in bus operation.

Sex assault suspects arrested

Two suspects in three recent sex assaults in Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect have been arrested in Tampa, Fla., police said Monday. The names of the men are being withheld. Buffalo Grove police are seeking one of the men in connection with two attacks, and Mount Prospect police are seeking the other for attempted rape and aggravated battery in an attack on a 24-year-old woman.

'If you're driving, stay off the booze'

The fine could be $1,000 or a one-year jail sentence if convicted of drunken driving in Illinois.

The drunken-driving law is not new. The potential penalties have not changed. But, safety officials in the Chicago area repeated old, sobering warnings for holiday travelers and party goers on New Year's Eve.

Don't couple drinking and driving, police chiefs, Cook County Circuit Court judges, highway safety and insurance industry spokesmen said.

"You can celebrate without it (alcohol)," Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case said. "Don't jeopardize other people as well as yourself. You may have an accident and you would regret it the rest of your life."

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER faces the double wrath of insurance firms and the courts, the National Safety Council said.

"A guy with a drunken driving conviction faces the real likelihood of being canceled," a spokesman for State Farm Insurance Companies said.

The drunken driver faces a maximum $1,000 fine or one-year jail sentence if convicted in Illinois. Loss of driver's license follows convictions for either driving while intoxicated or refusal to perform breath tests.

Despite the penalties for conviction of driving while drunk, about half of fatal automobile accidents are alcohol related, the National Safety Council spokesman said Monday.

"We know, realistically, that people are going to drink and drive," the spokesman said. "We suggest that they know something about alcohol. The best policy if they're going to drink is to plan for someone else to drive or to take public transportation."

IN ILLINOIS, .10 per cent of alcohol in the blood is a presumption of intoxication. The percentage is equivalent to drinking five or six ounces of 90-proof alcohol in an hour.

"By the time a person reaches the legal limit for alcohol, he's at least six times more likely to have an accident," the safety council spokesman said. Statistically, a .04 percentage of alcohol in the blood, about 1.5 to 2.5 drinks in an hour, is the point where a driver loses driving control.

Police departments in Des Plaines, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows will not increase New Year's Eve staffs. Although "the expectation is there" of increased arrests, "past history has not shown it to happen," Case said because "people stay home or in the neighborhood for parties."

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said that police "would be paying particular attention to taverns."

Walker orders $15 million reduction in state budget

Gov. Daniel Walker announced a plan to cut $15 million from the state budget Monday by setting a ceiling on the number of state employees.

Walker's spending cutbacks also call for reducing overtime by 20 per cent, a 10 per cent cut in costs of contractual services, a 50 per cent cutback in copying costs, elimination of newsletters and a freeze on starting other new state publications.

The number of state employees will be frozen at the number actually on the payroll as of Dec. 31 under the governor's plan to combat what Walker calls "overspending" by the state legislature.

Designed to prevent a tax increase without a massive layoff of state workers, Walker's program also includes some minor changes such as making state employees pay for their own lunches while they travel on state business.

The employee freeze does not apply to "critical people-service" areas such as police and health services, Walker said. But each state agency will have to show a need for each of its "middle-management" jobs and will lose any which can't be justified.

We'll ratify ERA: Partee

Democrats in the Illinois General Assembly plan to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, get collective bargaining rights for public employees and continue full funding for the school-aid formula, State Sen. Cecil A. Partee, D-Chicago, said Monday.

Announcing details of the Democratic legislative program for the session opening Jan. 11, Partee also said Democrats will push for consumer-oriented legislation, unit pricing, landlord-tenant and credit measures; limits on campaign spending and controls on the transportation and storage of hazardous materials.

Partee, expected to be elected president of the senate, said Democrats will strive to "watch our spending and to avoid raising taxes of legislating new taxes."

Defends prison furloughs

Illinois prison inmates are screened four times before being allowed out of prison on furlough, the director of the Illinois Dept. of Corrections said Monday.

Beginning March 1 you can subscribe to the Illinois Lottery.

The new program will allow a person to be able to buy one set of numbers good for a whole year of drawings. The names of subscribers and the numbers they bought will be kept in a computer and if the numbers are drawn any time during the year the person will be notified by Lottery officials, said Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch.

Batch said the price of the subscriptions has not been determined, but it will be somewhere around $26.

Back to work Jan. 2

Workers at the five International Harvester Co. plants in Illinois will go back to work Jan. 2, but will only work on a day-to-day basis because of the shutdown Monday of U.S. Steel's open hearth works at Gary, Ind.

Harvester officials said Monday they would search for alternative sources of steel to avoid laying off workers at International Harvester plants in Libertyville, Melrose Park, Canton, East Moline and Rock Island.

As many as 2,200 workers could be laid off at the plants which produce farm implements if the steel to supply the plants is not found.

Watergate cover-up case in hands of jurors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica sent the Watergate cover-up case to the jury Monday after 13 weeks of trial. The panel deliberated four hours without reaching a verdict, and recessed until Tuesday.

Sirica excused the jurors until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday after turning down their written request to be given huge chunks of trial testimony to aid them.

"We'd be trying this case all over again," Sirica told the jurors after summoning them back to court. "We'd be in a state of confusion."

Sirica sent the case to the jury at lunch time with an impassioned plea for a verdict that would at least reflect the truth behind the bugging scandal.

His voice quivering with emotion as he ended a nearly two-hour charge to the jurors, Sirica said it was their "solemn duty" to judge who, if anyone, is responsible for hushing up the bugging scandal.

"The object of this trial is to ascertain the truth about the issues that have been submitted for your determination," Sirica said, his voice rising.

"And how do you arrive at the truth? You do so by using your good common sense, objectively and without any passion, bias, prejudice or emotion, remembering at all times you are under oath to give all parties in this case a fair and impartial trial."

The five former aides to Richard M.

Nixon accused of conspiracy in the cover-up plot — John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson — watched expressionless as the jurors filed out of the courtroom.

After delivering his charge, Sirica excused the five alternate jurors whose services are no longer needed. He asked them not to talk to anyone about the case — even their families.

Sirica, who has handled Watergate cases from the time five men were arrested inside Democratic Party headquarters on June 17, 1972, urged the jury repeatedly to consider only the evidence and not be swayed by extraneous considerations such as the possible punishment a conviction might bring, or the full pardon granted Nixon for his own Watergate crimes.

Without mentioning Nixon by name, Sirica also cautioned the jurors to draw no inferences about missing witnesses, saying it "often happens" in the course of a trial that persons who might have been called to testify do not appear. The jurors have not been told of Nixon's near-fatal illness, his examination by court-appointed doctors or Sirica's ruling that he need not give testimony.

These, briefly were the charges against each defendant:

• Mitchell, the former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager — Allegedly approved the bugging operation and when the burglars were arrested ordered destruction of wiretap logs and set in motion the overall plan to pay them off to keep quiet.

• Haldeman, the former White House chief of staff — Relayed Nixon's orders to use the CIA to thwart the FBI's bugging investigation just six days after the arrests, ordered destruction of incriminating documents and approved use of a secret $350,000 White House fund as hush money.

• Ehrlichman, once Nixon's No. 2 aide — Sought to cover up Watergate in order to hide the earlier burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office by White House "plumbers" under his control, and recruited presidential lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach following the Watergate arrests to raise money for the burglars — which eventually totaled $429,500.

• Mardian, former assistant attorney general and Nixon campaign official — Took part in formulating the cover-up plan immediately after the arrests and promised that "commitments" to the burglars would be kept.

• Parkinson, a Nixon campaign lawyer — Shrugged off a confession by deputy campaign director Jeb Stuart Magruder that "we're all involved" a month after the break-in, and relayed money demands from the burglars to the campaign and the White House.

Quake kills 4,700, injures 15,000

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — Officials reported Monday that 4,700 persons were killed and more than 15,000 injured in the all-night earthquake that rumbled through a mountain-rimmed valley in northwestern Pakistan Saturday.

Army officers said the figure was expected to mount as relief workers reached more of the areas cut off by landslides.

The 70-mile belt in the snowy Karakoram mountain range presented a picture of death and destruction following the quake which struck the picturesque Swat valley 109 miles from Rawalpindi.

Some villages in the area were left masses of rubble. Many of those who survived the earthquake were later killed by tons of boulders rolling down the mountainsides.

Police said it was hard to find families without casualties. Officials in Patan, the hardest-hit village, said the number of dead and the injured may further rise after an air survey is completed.

Hundreds of shops and houses in Patan were flattened. A pooled news dispatch from Patan said it was a scene of death, destruction and despair.

The only way into the village was by helicopter. Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto planned to fly to Patan by helicopter on Tuesday.

Stone, mortar and wood huts lay in ruins in Patan. The town's pre-quake population was about 10,000 but the Army estimated that one-fourth of the villagers were casualties. Stunned villagers carried dead and injured through the rubble-strewn streets. Survivors picked their way through the ruins of their homes, searching for loved ones and salvageable household possessions.

At nightfall the living huddled in what clothing they could find. Some were able to put up makeshift shelters but most bedded down in the open as the temperature dropped to near zero.

In a full-scale army relief operation soldiers combed the hills of the North West Frontier province for other earthquake victims. Army and civilian helicopters and airplanes brought in doctors, nurses, medicines, food, tents and blankets and took out the injured on the return trip. Relief goods also included baby food, powdered milk and shoes.

• In cyclone devastated Darwin, Australia, meanwhile, Prime Minister Gough Whitlam said the government had decided to establish a reconstruction commission to rebuild the city. Whitlam said Darwin would be reconstructed on its present site under a broad five-year plan and the future size of the new city will depend on the number of people who want to live there.

Three killed and 11 injured

Police nab masked sniper of Olean, N.Y.

OLEAN, N.Y. (UPI) — A masked gunman, using a 30-06 rifle with hollow-nosed bullets, fatally shot a woman and two men and wounded eleven other persons Monday from Olean High School during a two-hour shooting spree.

Police said the sniper was carried from the school on a stretcher, but was not injured.

Olean police tentatively identified the gunman as Anthony Barbaro, about 17 or 18 years old. The suspect, thin and wearing a white sweatshirt, was believed to be an Olean High School student.

Officers managed to get into the building through the basement as darkness came, and about a half hour later, at 5:20 p.m., one of them yelled, "We've got him."

The dead were identified as: Miss Carmen Wright, 25, of Olean, shot in the head as she drove by the school in a car;

Neal Pilon, 58, Olean, an employee of the Columbia Gas Co., working in the area at the time of the shootings; and Earl Metcalf, 61, also of Olean, a janitor at the school.

All three were pronounced dead on arrival at Olean General Hospital. Also at Olean General was Miss Wright's brother, Julius. He received a minor eye injury when bullet fragments grazed him.

Eight firemen, all of whom arrived on the scene when the suspect allegedly started a fire in the school, were also taken to Olean hospital.

Two other persons were treated at St. Francis Hospital.

Officials said the high number of casualties was caused because the sniper was using hollow-nosed slugs. The bullets shattered on impact, scattering fragments which wounded others.

An Olean General Hospital spokesman said the suspect was rushed to the hospital immediately after his capture but was not shot.

"We examined and released him in the custody of the police," Gundlach said. "He was restrained but conscious. He was not shot."

REP. WILBUR MILLS Monday blamed his erratic behavior of recent months on undiagnosed alcoholism and said he will not permit the illness to spoil his career or drive him from Congress. The Arkansas Democrat vowed to quit drinking and apologized for "the embarrassment and pain I have brought to my family which I love deeply." The statement did not mention stripper Fanne Foxe.

Hostages freed, guerrillas fly to Cuba

by United Press International

A band of guerrillas that took off from Managua, Nicaragua with 14 newly freed prisoners and four volunteers standing in for hostages arrived in Havana Monday afternoon, Cuban radio reported.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said the Lanica Nicaraguan airlines jet landed in the Cuban capital at 2:10 p.m., about two hours after taking off from Managua. Later, officials in Managua reported the plane returned.

Alaska natural gas line delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Natural gas customers will have to wait at least one additional year before reaping the benefits of a proposed $6 billion gas pipeline across Alaska, the firm that wants to build the line said Monday.

Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. also said energy-hungry Americans can expect to pay more for the Alaskan gas than they are paying now despite the increased supplies offered by the natural gas beneath the state's North Slope.

The year's delay — from 1979 to mid-1980 for completion of the line running 2,600 miles across Alaska and Canada — was revealed in a supplement to the company's application for Federal Power Commission approval of the project.

Arctic Gas told the FPC "it now seems unlikely" the pipeline can be completed by 1979 as originally anticipated. The company said it now expects to start laying pipe across the frozen Alaskan tundra in November, 1979, and gas should begin flowing through the completed line to U.S. and Canadian markets by mid-1980.

Meanwhile, the House Subcommittee on Activities of Regulatory Agencies said Monday that an "abysmal" federal system of keeping tabs on energy is costing taxpayers billions of dollars a year.

The subcommittee said information gaps and weaknesses affect "the full range of energy policy-making" and also the ability of the federal energy bureaucracy to guard against conflicts of interest by its employees.

Earlier in the day, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa announced the Nicaraguans had negotiated the trip through Spain's ambassador in Managua.

The 14 were at Managua's La Merced airport moments before the guerrillas took off to the cheers of a hankerchief-waving crowd of 150 persons.

The hostages had been seized Friday when the guerrillas shot their way into the party. They appeared to be in good condition. After waving at the crowd they were taken away in two station wagons to meet President Anastasio Somoza in the presidential palace.

The people in the crowd cheered the freed hostages but reserved their loudest cheer for the takeoff of the plane.

The guerrillas were wearing gas masks and stockings over their faces and carrying submachine guns when they boarded the blue and white jet at the far end of the runway.

National Guard troops ringing the house where the kidnapers had been holed up were withdrawn minutes before the guerrillas and their hostages emerged in a red and yellow bus and sped off for the airport, 12 miles away.

The Spanish and Mexican ambassadors, the archbishop of Managua and the Pope's representative in Nicaragua volunteered to fly along to Cuba with the kidnapers as a guarantee they would not be stopped.

The guerrillas had said they would kill their hostages at 12-hour intervals starting Tuesday night if their terms were not met.

"If there had been any other way to get our comrades out of jail this action would never have happened," they said in a broadcast manifesto. The guerrillas are part of the "Sandinista National Liberation Front," a left-wing group named after Gen. Cesar Sandino, who opposed the occupation of Nicaragua by U. S. Marines in the 1930s.

Mansfield ends China tour; begins on report for Ford

• After three weeks inside Communist China, Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield arrived in Hong Kong to begin preparing a report for President Ford. Mansfield, who said he had a warm reception in China, held talks on Sino-U.S. relations with a series of high-ranking officials, including Premier Chou En-lai, with whom he met for 55 minutes in a hospital room. He reported Chou looking well and "still very much in command."

• Another traveling Senator — South Carolina Republican Strom Thurmond — was given South Korea's order of diplomatic service, Kwanghwa, in a meeting with President Park Chung-hee in Seoul. Also present for the courtesy visit with Park was Sen. William Scott, R-Va., who received no decoration.

• A Russian man who figured in a well-publicized international romance may end up as a librarian at the University of Chicago. At least that's one of the possibilities Sergei Ignashev outlined for himself when he announced he had received permission to join his wife — the former Diane Nemec of Chicago — in the United States. The two were married in Moscow in July after red tape delayed the ceremony for weeks, and she left two weeks later when her visa expired and began looking for a job for Ignashev, a librarian and translator by profession.

• Marlon Brando's sister — Mrs. Francis Loving — said she was overstating a bit when she said, "Over my dead body," to reports that Brando would give her 40-acre plot near Mundelein back to the Indians. Actually, Mrs. Loving said Monday, Brando owns a third of the farm on which she and her husband live, and if he wants to give up his part along with his other holdings, she's "100 per cent behind what he's doing."

• Ronald Reagan will turn newspaperman when he retires as California governor in January. The Copley News Service — which has some 1,500 newspaper clients around the world — said Reagan will write a weekly conservative-oriented column on national and international affairs.

• Sign of the times: the Caprice, a super-exclusive London restaurant that over the years catered to millionaires, the nobility, stage, film and ballet stars, is closing. Manager John Moroni lamented that today's fast pace of life has changed eating habits to where there's no time to enjoy eating Caprice-style and where many diners no longer know or care whether food is frozen or fresh.

Prison in Walla Walla quiet again

Riot-trained police recaptured a hospital seized by inmates inside the state penitentiary in Walla Walla, Wash. Monday night. An uprising in a cellblock also ended when other prisoners released two guards and returned to their cells, officials said. Two women, a dental technician and a nurse, suffered stab wounds and two technicians were cut by flying glass when the riot squad moved in and retook the hospital from two inmates. Later Prison Superintendent B. J. Rhay talked the men in the cellblock into giving up and returning to their cells.

Dent: happier economic times ahead

Commerce Secretary William Dent Monday said recent layoffs have undermined consumer confidence but predicted spring and summer would be happier times for American workers. Dent, speaking in Atlanta, said the economy would recover next year without wage and price controls. Dent and other Ford administration officials are working on new programs to aid the economy and reduce energy consumption.

Meanwhile, Armco Steel Corp. announced it is raising prices today on a limited number of steel products. A spokesman said the price increase is similar to those of other companies after rollbacks brought about by government pressure. CFI Steel of Pueblo, Colo., announced Monday it would rollback its increase by 17 per cent.

Ford signs foreign aid bill

President Ford, whittling away at a large stack of legislation sent him before Congress adjourned, signed a $2.6 billion foreign aid bill Monday and vetoed measures to regulate strip mining and to boost the U. S. maritime industry. And in a busy day that included another session on the Vail, Colo., ski slopes, the President also conferred for over two hours with his chief of staff, Donald Rumsfeld, talked by telephone with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and CIA Director William E. Colby, and signed several minor bills.

CIA spokesman: no purges launched

A Central Intelligence Agency spokesman said Monday "no purges" have been launched at the agency in the wake of allegations the CIA illegally spied on Americans within the United States. But the spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said there have been a number of recent early retirements from the CIA. Asked about reports that at least four high officials in the counter-intelligence and operations branch had recently resigned, the spokesman said it was CIA policy not to talk about operational matters.

Reduce domestic air fares: C.A.B.

Rejecting complaints by the airlines, the Civil Aeronautics Board ruled Monday that long-distance domestic passenger air fares should be reduced and short-haul fares should be increased to more accurately reflect the costs of the flights. The board also said the difference between coach and first-class fares should be increased by up to 22 per cent over the next 2½ years, indicating that coach-class passengers now are paying an unfair share of the extra comforts provided those in first class seats.

Relatives arrive to claim crash dead

Guatemalan air force planes Monday flew the bodies of 21 American tourists and three Guatemalan crewmen back to the Guatemala City from the jungle region where their chartered plane crashed Saturday on takeoff. "We still do not know what caused the accident," an Air Force spokesman said. Relatives of the dead began arriving Monday to make funeral arrangements.

Brezhnev postpones Mideast visit

Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev postponed indefinitely Monday a scheduled visit to the Arab world. Arab sources said his talks in Moscow with Egyptian officials had broken down over military aid and peace negotiations. In Cairo, Egyptian and Communist diplomatic sources said the postponement of Brezhnev's visits to Egypt, Syria and Iraq now place Middle East peacemaking efforts more firmly in the American camp, and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

GOLD IS RIDING high these days. At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, the price of gold goes right up there in plain sight as trading begins on the now legal private ownership of the precious metal effective today.

'There's gold in them thar banks!'—today

Want to buy through bank? Here's how...

Gold bugs should be prepared to shell out cash for the bullion and several added charges, warns one area banker.

Robert Kodl, vice president of the Plum Grove Bank in Rolling Meadows, said his bank, as many others in the area, will execute orders for gold purchases placed by customers. "We will make no recommendations as to whether it is a worthwhile investment," he said. Extra charges will boost the cost of the investment, he said.

Here's how it works, as explained by Kodl:

A customer places an order through the local bank, and the order is placed through the Continental Bank in Chicago. The buyer will get a "fix" on the current gold price in the London market. A fabrication charge will be added by the producer. On a one-ounce wafer, for example, the charge is $3. To this amount, add freight and handling costs, plus a handling charge of $15 for Continental Bank. A second service charge by the bank, plus a 5 per cent state sales tax, then must be calculated.

The Plum Grove charge for service is $20 a transaction, for example. Delivery to the bank will cost extra, plus the insurance cost. Or the buyer may store the gold at the Chicago bank for a cost of $10. "So to buy a small amount of gold there are some very heavy charges," Kodl said.

U.S. officials offer buying tips

Ready to make gold 'strike'? Beware

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans will be able to buy gold at the end of this year, and government officials have begun a campaign to make sure they do not get cheated.

The prospect of heavy new gold sales already has started a series of phony schemes, Alfred Rusch, a special counsel for the Securities and Exchange Commission, said Monday.

Bank regulatory agencies also laid down stiff guidelines for financial institutions dealing in the precious metal after the first of the year.

WITH AN EYE TO unauthorized foreign exchange trading that caused major bank losses recently, the comptroller of the currency said national banks who trade gold for their own account must get prior approval from their board of directors.

Federally chartered savings and loan associations will not be allowed to deal in gold at all, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board ruled.

A news conference was called to caution Americans about shady gold schemes. These include sales of "gold bricks" — lead bars passed off as 99 per cent pure gold — and fictitious overseas gold stockpiles that suckers can buy into through warehouse receipts.

"It's the old alchemy trick," said Rusch as he explained how one group attempted to gull people with a "secret process" that produces gold from worthless ore.

"Consumers may find that the purchase of gold is more of a mine field than a gold mine unless they are familiar with the risks," said Virginia H.

Price of gold hits record $201.40 per ounce in Paris. Section 2, Page 8.

Knauer, President Ford's consumer affairs adviser.

THE SERIES OF gold-related announcements came at a news conference aimed at warning private investors and professional financiers of the pitfalls in gold trading, which will be legal Dec. 31 for the first time in 40 years.

At that time, American citizens who heretofore have only been legally allowed to own gold in the form of coins or jewelry will be able to line up at bank windows and buy bullion for hard cash.

The government issued 14 guidelines for consumers who plan to buy gold:

- Be wary of unsolicited correspondence or calls from strangers offering gold or gold investments.
- Be skeptical of spectacular profits.
- Ask yourself: "Why am I being offered this golden opportunity?"
- Resist pressures to make hurried, uninformed investments.
- Be suspicious of claims of new, secret or exotic processes.
- Seek independent advice from a person you trust and who is knowledgeable.
- Consider the risks in relation to your own financial position.

• Find out if the company has registered with the SEC or state securities agency.

• Attempt to determine the difference between what the seller pays for gold and the price charged.

• Find out what additional costs are involved — such as a refining charge, assay fees, commissions, shipping and storage fees, insurance costs and sales tax.

• Demand a written guarantee concerning weight and purity. Some gold bears a refiner's mark assaying its weight and fineness; however, there are no federal standards.

All that glitters may be price of gold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gold bullion ownership could be an expensive and risky venture for the average American.

Federal and state officials, bankers and many gold dealers are warning citizens to think twice before they sink their savings into the precious metal.

Gold is expensive. The world market price rose to nearly $200 an ounce in anticipation of a big American demand when the ban against private U.S. ownership was lifted.

There are many extra and hidden charges that could add $50 an ounce to the market price. That means the world price would have to rise 30 to 50 per cent for the investor to break even when it is resold, which also involves additional charges.

"Betting that will happen may appeal to a commodities speculator or a Las Vegas odds maker, but it makes no sense for the average consumer to gamble on that kind of longshot," said Charles C. Smith, vice president of Bankers Trust of New York.

The additional purchase costs include all or most of the following: a fabrication charge to cut it down to size, a sales commission, transportation charges, storage fees, assaying fees, to determine authenticity, and sales taxes where applicable.

Investors could avoid a storage fee by taking their gold home but this has high theft risks.

Most dealers are advising customers to leave their gold in the care of the dealers who will store it in bank depositories. The owner would receive a certificate or receipt of ownership.

IN ADDITION TO reduced storage costs, the owner will save assaying charges when it is resold, if the dealer is reputable and the assaying mark is widely accepted.

Most dealers and the few banks dealing in gold bullion have established minimum purchases of five ounces. The initial investment for the gold itself at today's market price would be $1,000.

Fabrication, sales commission, storage, transportation and perhaps assaying could add by conservative estimates $100 or $200 or even more if the gold is held for a long period of time.

Pros, cons of gold ownership

by United Press International

Here are some of the major arguments advanced in the debate over the advisability of buying and owning gold bullion:

- Advantages
- Gold has its own intrinsic value as a precious metal.
  - Currencies and governments may rise and fall, but gold holds its basic value and is universally negotiable.
  - The price of gold has quadrupled in the past four years and therefore is a good investment.

Disadvantages

- Gold is expensive, selling for nearly $200 an ounce at today's prices.
- It is a highly speculative commodity, rising and falling in value on world markets in which few Americans have any experience.
- In addition to the market price, buyers will have to pay 20 per cent or more in commission fees, storage, assaying and sales taxes where applicable.
- Gold draws no interest and pays no dividends.

Gerald Fitzgerald

Fitzgerald said. "If I were terribly worried about a catastrophe coming, I'd say gold would be a good investment, but I don't think it will happen." More likely, the continued inflation may eventually bring rewards to the gold investor, he said.

Fitzgerald pooh-poohs the notion that many investors will be "taken" by fraudulent dealers in gold. "The average person with money is conservative and smart," he said. "Yes, if you buy a gold brick on the street corner for $500 you can be sure it's a lead bar covered with paint." But the buyer who deals with a reputable seller should experience no difficulties," he said.

For the gold buyer with cash in hand, the Suburban Bank Group affiliates will sell the one-ounce wafers at the current price on the London market, plus a five per cent service charge. Customers may store the gold at the banks or take it home. "We'll buy it back from them, if they bought it here," Fitzgerald said. "We'll keep a record, and pay them the going price." The original shipment of 1,000 wafers to the area banks may be supplemented if the demand for gold is great, he said. The group includes two banks in Palatine, and banks in Elk Grove Village, Cary, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

Gradual changes in service planned

NORTRAN set to take over busline

by STEVE BROWN

Officials of the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) announced Monday that the district will officially take over operation of the United Motor Coach Co. Wednesday.

The move ends nearly a year of negotiations and talks between NORTRAN and bus company officials as well as efforts to obtain federal funds to keep the bus company going.

NORTRAN agreed to pay the owners of the bus company slightly more than $1 million several months ago, but the final takeover was delayed by federal officials who were processing the funding application.

DES PLAINES and Wheeling officials recently voted to join the 18 other member communities that comprise NORTRAN.

Joseph DiJohn, NORTRAN executive director, Monday said that there will be no immediate dramatic changes in the operation of the district.

He said that a series of gradual changes are planned during the next eight months that should make the area bus operations, the "most modern in the nation." The district has ordered 74 new buses, which should arrive in August.

DiJohn also said NORTRAN will begin work immediately to modernize the bus operation and prepare a new route system, improved transfer and fares schedule and other improvements.

HE SAID THE recent results of a federally funded transportation plan indicated that UMC buses did not do a good job providing connections with other mass transit systems in the area.

"We will be working to revise our schedules so that it will be easier to make connections with other buses and trains in the area," DiJohn said.

Two present UMC officials, John Hanck and George Koelper, will continue to be involved in the bus service operations.

In addition to Des Plaines and Wheeling, NORTRAN buses will continue to serve Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

DiJohn said NORTRAN also has plans to modernize UMC's garage, 900 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, as part of the improvement program.

Class helps kids organize for study

by LINDA PUNCH

He's a familiar sight in any classroom — the absent-minded, disorganized student who can never find his homework paper or the overdue library book.

Teachers at Iroquois Junior High School long recognized the need for a class to help these students. They now teach a class to instruct seventh-grade students in good study habits.

"Students used to have study periods but we noticed they didn't know how to use them," said Arlene Koprivnic. "The kids didn't know how to organize work or study at all."

"These kids are the TV generation — they don't know how to use a library or even organize an assignment. We hear the same thing from high school and college teachers — kids just don't know how to write."

SHARIE FREUDENBERGER, a Spanish teacher who volunteers free time to teach a study-habits class, said "a lot of kids try very hard. They'll do an assignment but then lose it because they're disorganized."

"We teach them math and science but nobody stopped to tell them how to keep organized."

Mrs. Koprivnic said every group is taught differently — "some are still working to write assignments down and remember pencils and books. Others are learning to do research papers using library materials," she said.

"Following directions and keeping a neat notebook" are the emphasis of Mrs. Freudenberg, who notes that "a lot of kids were never taught to organize a notebook or keep a neat locker."

ONE RECENT assignment called for students to write instructions for assembling a Christmas decoration. The seventh-graders had to follow their own directions to the letter.

"If they forgot to write down instructions for gluing on paper, then they weren't allowed to do it," Mrs. Freudenberg said.

The Iroquois teachers are trying to "get the students prepared for high school," Mrs. Koprivnic added.

"These aren't just good habits for college-bound students — they're good habits for any kind of work. It's just plain, ordinary being organized," she said. Seventh-grade teachers at the school incorporate the study material into the regular curriculum. One science teacher notes that the classes have given teachers more time to teach the academic subjects.

"Before, we could never teach library skills or study habits without taking regular class time," she said. "Now everyone knows when the kids are ready to do a research paper."

WRITING DIRECTIONS for a holiday decoration and following them in sequence is one way teacher Sharie Freudenberg demonstrates good study habits to students. Iroquois Junior High student Robert Haag, a seventh grader, assembles a project using instructions he completed earlier in the week.

FALLEN TREES litter the county forest preserve at to the Des Plaines River, said Sam Gabriel, chief hikers in the woods. The trunks were to be removed, but wet ground prevented completion of the job, Gabriel said.

Mrs. Marier says she won't seek reelection in April

The Harper College Board of Trustees will have at least one new member after the board election in April. Board member Marilyn Marier has announced that she will not seek reelection.

Mrs. Marier, of Arlington Heights, said Monday that she will leave the board when her term expires in April. She was first elected to the board in 1972.

"I've enjoyed it and I've certainly enjoyed the people I've worked with," she said, but added, "I guess I really am a private person." She said she will continue to be active in civic affairs, including the Volunteer Service Bureau.

Lawrence Moats, whose board seat also will be up for election in April, said Monday he has not decided yet whether to run for reelection. He said he will decide "as soon as possible."

Moats was first elected to the board in 1969 while he was a student at the college. He is an electrical contractor and lives in Arlington Heights.

Marilyn Marier

The Harper board election will be April 12, with filing opening for candidates Feb. 26. Candidates for the Harper board must be at least 21, registered voters and residents of the Harper district. Candidate petitions for the election may be obtained in the college business office.

There is no tuition charge for the program. Registration may be made with Leadership Center coordinator Joan Marsh at the college.

'Grantsmanship' discussed

Tuition for the workshop is $10. Registration is available through Joan Marsh, coordinator of the Leadership Center at Harper. The workshop will be in the board room in Building A on the college campus.

East wins big swindle of '74

We wind up 1974 with a defensive gem that may well be the swindle of this or any year.

Playing at a normal six notrump, declarer makes 13 tricks by successfully finessing for the king of clubs. At one table in the duplicate game where the hand was played North jumped all the way to seven notrump.

South decided that down one or two at seven would be the same match-point zero. After mature thought he proceeded to cash his ace and king of diamonds. If the queen failed to drop he would still be able to go after that king of clubs.

While South was thinking, East had been doing some thinking of his own. He had worked out just what South's problem was. Now when the second high diamond was led, East was ready. He dropped the queen!

South fell for it like a ton of bricks. He finessed dummy's nine and East scored his 10 spot.

To settle questions on the bidding, North's four clubs was Gerber. South's four notrump rebid showed three aces.

Panama City

Resort town fulfills destiny

by JOICE VESELKA
PANAMA CITY, Fla. — An air of gaiety prevails here. To residents and visitors alike, it is a place to relax, be entertained and enjoy the abundant natural resources.

It is more than a feeling, however. It is the chosen destiny of this Northwest Florida resort.

Water is perhaps the city's most treasured asset, providing unlimited recreational possibilities and contributing heavily to the relaxed, out-of-doors mode of living. And water there is — in great abundance.

Bodies of fresh and salt water stretch in every direction and are but a few minutes away from almost any point within the city.

FOUR MAJOR BAYS — West, North, East and St. Andrew — separate metropolitan Panama City from the peninsular stretches of beach bordering the Gulf of Mexico.

In addition, there are numerous streams and bayous, the Intra-coastal Waterway, Grand Lagoon and nearby Lake Powell and Dead Lakes.

Another body of water, Deer Point Reservoir, is a 5,000-acre lake impounded by a dam. Statistics show this lake provides a minimum of 760 million gallons of fresh water per day — enough to supply a city the size of Detroit or Philadelphia.

Because of its location, with the dam separating the water of the reservoir from that of North Bay, fishermen may cast a line on one side for fresh water fish and on the other side for salt water species.

Because of Panama City's abundance of water, marine-oriented facilities thrive, imparting yet another facet to the resort's easygoing personality. Seafaring attire is a common mode of dress, and glowing, sun-bronzed skin is the norm.

THE CITY BOASTS two modern marinas, fleets of charter and party boats for fishing, sightseeing cruises and myriad facilities for beachside recreation. Most restaurants feature local seafood specialties, and many have their own fishing fleets from which they are supplied.

Commercial fleets of ocean-going vessels range the waters of the Gulf and Caribbean in search of red snapper; local oystermen cultivate and harvest their bountiful oyster beds. During shrimping season, more than 100 boats from Panama City berths are in action on the Gulf, and year-round study and cultivation of this tasty crustacean takes place at Marifarms Inc., a commercial shrimp farm on St. Andrew Bay.

Also situated on the shores of St. Andrew Bay is the U.S. Navy Mine Defense Laboratory, where both Navy and civilian personnel engage in intensive underwater research.

Throughout the city and surrounding beach communities, the outdoor mood prevails. Water again is the key factor, and the emphasis is clearly on fun. Everywhere, there are bikinis, beach accessories and the sounds of entertainment. Elaborate amusement parks, zoos, miniature golf courses and a sightseeing tower overlooking the Gulf of Mexico are among the many attractions situated on or near the water's edge.

PANAMA CITY'S status as a resort is not a recent thing, however. As early as the 1880s, before the city itself was even established, the St. Andrew Bay area was a vacation site for the sun seekers of the nation. In fact, that's how the city began.

The time was the latter part of that decade. George Mortimer West of Chicago, a developer by profession, vacationed in the St. Andrew vicinity, noted even then for its fine fishing. Enamored of the land and excited by its possibilities, he bought property on the bay and, in 1905, organized the Gulf Coast Development Co.

Because of West's determined efforts, Panama City prospered. And, likewise, its appeal as a resort increased manifold.

In 1936, the city's future remained bright and promising. Or so reflected the late Ernie Pyle, noted journalist, in his visit March 7 of that year.

As one visits this popular resort, stroll-

WATER, WATER — It's Panama City's most treasured asset. Numerous bodies of fresh and salt water offer unlimited recreational possibilities and contribute heavily to the relaxed, out-of-doors mode of living that characterizes this northwest Florida resort.

New device adds to O'Hare safety

For the millions of Americans who will board commercial airplanes in late 1975, there's new assurance that you'll be landing on a runway rather than on the side of a mountain or in a cornfield.

In the wake of a series of airline crashes in which pilot inattention was at least partially responsible, the Federal Aviation Administration has ordered the addition of a new safety device to prevent plane crashes.

The device is called a "ground proximity warning system" and it is designed to warn pilots when they are flying too low to the ground by sounding a loud "Whoop! Whoop! Pull up!" in the cockpit.

The device, which is a computer that plugs into existing navigational aides, is long overdue, but only a series of airplane crashes seems to have prompted its mandatory installation.

Early in 1973, the FAA was considering mandatory installation of the system, and there was little official airline reaction to the proposal. However, after several crashes in late 1974, the FAA ordered that all airplanes must have the new system installed by Dec. 1, 1975.

Only two airlines in the United States — Pan American World Airways is one of them — have previously ordered installation of the device. The reluctance to use this device, in light of air crashes which have featured apparent pilot misjudgments, is especially disconcerting.

There are, of course, other instruments that alert pilots to altitude changes. However, experts have reported that pilot inattention has been a culprit in some of the recent air crashes. This device is designed to alert automatically pilots whose aircraft has wandered too close to the earth.

To those of us who live close to O'Hare International Airport, the installation can't come quickly enough for it will help assure us of safety on the approach patterns to O'Hare. It's a device that is important to safety, and it's unfortunate it's taken so long to require it on all commercial flights.

We're not flying too low — we haven't taken off yet!

That !&%$?-ed snow plow!

by DOROTHY MEYER

A long time ago I realized that I was much too old and weak to tolerate the hangovers of my mad impetuous youth, and my New Year's Eve celebrations have since been paced accordingly. Tonight, though, I might get drunk just so I have an excuse for falling into bed, an excuse other than, "I tripped over a snow plow."

Sometimes I tripped over a hockey game, but one way or another for the three weeks before Christmas I fell into bed every night — stone cold sober.

The snow plow — actually only a five-foot-long snow blade — and the hockey game were Christmas presents that needed hiding and it was only because I wasn't home at the right time that I didn't also get a toboggan in my bedroom.

The toboggan and hockey game were things the neighbors needed to hide, the snow blade was for my son and since he doesn't live here any more his wife and I decided we could store it here.

I wasn't home when that was delivered, either, but my daughter-in-law left a note, "The snow blade is in the living room by the library table." In most homes it wouldn't be necessary to point this out in a note, but the pre-Christmas shambles in this house was such that a snow plow in the living room might have been overlooked.

Since No. 1 son frequently pops in and I do sometimes clean the living room when I can't get through it any more, Marilyn and I struggled the blade into my bedroom and closed the door.

That night I opened the door, tripped over the snow blade and fell into bed.

Ditto the next night and the next, then neighbor came over to hide the hockey game.

By a lucky coincidence the hockey game was the same size as the snow blade and by standing the snow blade on end in a corner we could accommodate the hockey game. My bedroom was beginning to look like a warehouse so we

Caviar, onions: good news of '74

by DICK WEST

Each year at this time news gathering organizations select the year's 10 biggest stories. But I wonder if this tradition isn't misleading.

The daily coverage of events around the world isn't just made up of big and little news. Essentially, it is a composite of good news and bad news.

So rather than pick the 10 biggest stories, it might be more meaningful to choose the five best stories and the five worst stories.

FIRST, the worst news:

1. Energy price squeeze creates inflation rate that threatens to undermine American economy.

2. Government efforts to control inflation create widespread recession.

3. Threat of war in Middle East escalates as . . .

Well, as it turns out, the worst news is the same as the biggest news. So, to avoid further duplication, let us move on to the five best stories.

Dick West

SOME PARENTHETICAL notations may be necessary to make clear why these items are good news.

1. Russians announce invention of artificial caviar.

While certain purists may contend that synthetic fish eggs is taking test tube procreation too far, the benefits to mankind can hardly be exaggerated.

The worldwide shortage of sturgeon roe has caused severe suffering in many areas. This breakthrough appears to be the answer to the desperate need for a product that is as tasty as real caviar, but cheaper and more nutritious.

2. Onion shortage ends.

The worldwide onion shortage that caused severe suffering in many areas in 1973 has been overcome, thanks to seasonal weather in the onion belt and improved techniques by onion farmers, some of whom had been planting tulips by mistake.

3. Office workers hit by paper clip shortage.

The worldwide sufficiency of paper clips that caused massive bureaucrats proliferation in many areas has finally been licked.

Diversion of steel from paper clip wire into higher trade products seems certain to slow down increase of government forms, at least temporarily.

Unfortunately, plastic clips now coming on the market may close the paperwork gap. But let us enjoy it while we can.

4. Soviet watch industry may seek U.S. markets.

If you were the first kid on your block to own Mickey Mouse and Spiro Agnew watches, you can now look forward to sporting the first Joe Stalin watch.

5. World's first "deodorant socks" introduced. Stops perspiration odor even in sweat socks.

No explanation necessary.

What's in a date?

There is no compelling reason why we endorse January 1 as the beginning of a new year.

The ancients, in their closeness to and dependence upon the cycles of nature, were actually more sensible about this calendar business than we by marking each new year with the coming of spring and the return of life to the land, or associating it with some other important seasonal event, such as the flooding of the Nile.

It is only in relatively modern times that we have arbitrarily selected January 1 as New Year's Day. The Julian calendar, which began its year on March 25, was, in fact, used by Great Britain and its American colonies until the middle of the 18th century.

We could argue that January 1 is a logical choice because it comes shortly after the winter solstice, that point in the earth's orbit when the days slowly start growing longer in the Northern Hemisphere.

However, this is purely happenstance, and anyway, for those in the Southern Hemisphere it means just the opposite, that the nights are growing longer and that summer is ending — no particular cause for celebration.

But New Year's Day also falls hard upon Christmas Day. Perhaps here is a clue to the reasoning behind our calendar, if reasons we need.

With Christmas comes the memories of Christmas past, that warm feeling of good will toward our fellows that always manifests itself at this season and infects even the Scrooges among us, as well as a sort of summing up in our minds of what we have done, or failed to do, for ourselves and for others during the previous year.

Some of that sentiment, that good will, that resolve to do better in the coming year carries over for at least a week. All the bills, of course, carry over.

Perhaps then it is highly appropriate that our New Year's Day, which in all cultures has been a time to straighten out old debts and make plans and resolutions for the future, should fall during the one period in the year when we are most receptive to thoughts of a new beginning.

Let the astronomers keep track of solstices and equinoxes and solar revolutions. New Year's Day, like Christmas, is something that happens in the heart. And in every heart this day is the same wish:

May it be a Happy New Year.

Next: a commission on pencils?

Everybody knows that the bigger the business and the bigger the government, the bigger the problem of paperwork.

It's one of those axioms by which we all know we must live, and as proof there's a study that says American business spends $18 billion a year to fill out government forms at all levels. Seems that paperwork feeds on paperwork.

But there is hope. Your federal government — thanks to an act of Congress — now will have $4 million and a 14-member group, with aides, to study the whole problem. It will be called the Commission on Federal Paperwork, and it will be in business as soon as it gets its forms printed.

Nineteen Seventy Four: Year of portent and foreboding, a year of accelerating inflation, rising unemployment, deepening energy crisis — worldwide.

All this has not come out of nowhere and will not vanish into the void. Portents clarify and forebodings come true. Recession becomes depression, inflation becomes bankruptcy, crisis becomes collapse. Some years end where they began. Others begin where the year before left off.

Three months before 1974 began, two super happenings set the course of the year ahead. During the Yom Kippur war of October, 1973, the Arabs fought the Israelis to a standstill. During November, the Arabs declared an oil embargo that threatened to bring the industrialized nations of the world to a standstill.

Those Third World nations that were neither Arab nor oil-producing faced their blackest prospects ever. The quadrupled price of Arab oil meant that the poorest and most overpopulated of the Third World nations took a cut of at least 75 per cent in their meager but vital petroleum imports. Western Europe's dependence on the Middle East for between 70 and 80 per cent of its oil imports spelled discomfort and worse.

Nor can Americans look forward to rising living standards in the foreseeable future. Although we still produce more than half our petroleum needs within our own borders, our dependence on the outside world has steadily increased — and not for petroleum products and other sources of energy only. We also found ourselves increasingly dependent on other essential raw materials of which the Third World nations now possess the lion's share.

But if nothing that happened during 1974 shook the world as the Arab oil embargo of 1973 did, something has happened during the first week of December, 1974 that promises to shake the world of 1975 even more than the Arab oil embargo shook the world of 1974.

The plunging stock market, the increasing unemployment, the soaring cost of living, the shutdowns at Detroit, the housing chaos, the gold craze — such signs and portents as these at last forced the word "recession" from a reluctant President Ford. But his decision to postpone any action until after the State of the Union message in mid-January all but guarantees that before 1975 has run half its course the words World Depression will have rendered the words American recession inoperative.

In any case, it well may be that nothing short of a world depression can exorcise the American recession, the accelerating spread of starvation throughout the Third World, and the worldwide energy crisis.

In 1967, two Americans, Paul Paddock, with 26 years in the State Department's Foreign Service behind him, and his brother William, with as long an experience as an agronomist specializing in the Third World, brought out Famine 1975! America's Decision: Who Will Survive? based on their joint experience of 40 years.

Their conclusion: "There is no possibility of improving agriculture in the hungry nations soon enough to avert famine." Their prediction came true one year ahead of schedule when more than 100,000 black Saharan Africans died of starvation. In 1975 they face a death toll of more than half a million.

Although the United States cannot solve the worldwide energy crisis single handed, it can at once expand its wheat and soybean harvests to an amount that will begin to turn the tide among the Third World nations and peoples chiefly threatened.

Once President Ford finds himself coping with the Great American Recession, the appetite will come with the eating and he will find that he and his country are already caught up in a Great World Depression which will call for national and international efforts as great as those in wartime, but not so painful and wasteful.

No matter how, when, or whether this may happen, the coming year cannot but prove a time of belt tightening, retrenchment, and reappraisal for all Americans.

Entering 1975: tougher yet?

For Europeans, times will be harder; for the nations and peoples of the Third World in Asia, Africa, Latin America — yes, the Middle east, too — the cruellest burdens and sufferings are likely to fall.

The large majorities by which the Third World bloc can now determine the actions and nonaction of the United Nations pose the greatest threat to the Third World members themselves who can cut their throats much faster than anyone can do it for them.

Which is why the United States as the bread, wheat, and soybean basket of the world has so great and immediate an opportunity.

The almanac

Today is Tuesday, December 31st, the 365th and last day of 1974. This is New Year's Eve.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn. French explorer Jacques Cartier was born December 31st, 1491.

Also on this day in history:

• In 1879, Thomas Edison gave the first public demonstration of the incandescent lamp in Menlo Park, New Jersey.

• In 1890, Ellis Island in New York harbor became the receiving station for immigrants arriving from Europe.

• In 1946, President Truman proclaimed the official end of World War Two, well over a year after the surrender of Germany and Japan.

• In 1972, Pittsburgh Pirates baseball star Roberto Clemente and four other persons were killed in a crash of a chartered cargo plane on a mercy mission to earthquake — devastated Nicaragua.

A thought for today: British author Charles Lamb said: "Of all the sound of bells . . . the most solemn and touching is the peal which rings out the old year."

Exercise the key to trimming the tummy

Am I hurting myself by placing a flat rock (20 pounds) on my stomach? I usually lie flat on the floor, place the rock on my stomach and concentrate on flexing my stomach muscles.

It's very difficult for me to lose my flabby stomach. Swimming, bicycle riding or exercising all summer did not even phase the fat bulge.

I'm 47, female and weigh 150 pounds. I'm 67 inches tall. I was warned by a friend that a heavy object on the stomach is unhealthy. I disagree.

Whether a heavy object on the stomach is dangerous or not depends on what it is. If you are not careful you will win the weight-lifting contest for the stomach muscle division.

Whenever you want to strengthen a muscle you should do exercises that contract that muscle. You do exercises that bend the elbow to strengthen the biceps. By using a weight while bending the elbow and contracting the biceps you progressively strengthen and enlarge the biceps muscle.

The main stomach muscles are attached at the lower part of your ribs and to the ligaments and bones of the pelvis. When you do a sit-up these muscles are contracted and strengthened. Ordinary situps affect the upper muscles most and lying on your back while lifting your feet off the floor with the knees straight helps strengthen the lower muscles. So sit-ups and leg lifts or those exercises that are modifications of these basic exercises are the ones that help to tighten up the abdomen.

VOLUNTARILY contracting and relaxing the abdominal muscles helps, too, whether you are lying down, sitting or standing. Literally sucking in that abdomen as much as you can and holding this position five to 15 seconds, resting, and then repeating the maneuver for regular exercise periods daily does help some.

Your problem is not unusual. You simply cannot get rid of a fat abdomen without getting rid of fat. A person with poor muscle tone and a sagging pot can improve the shape of the abdomen with exercise, but if you have fat inside the abdominal cavity and under the skin, the only thing that works is eliminating the fat. This usually requires a change in diet combined with an exercise program. There is no way you can compress a pound of lard and make it smaller. The same is true of body fat.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Now that rock on the stomach may not cause you any trouble, but I'm not wild about the idea. People who have a hernia through the diaphragm shouldn't do this because the increased pressure would help force the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm. Obesity contributes to this type of hernia, and it is quite common in middle-aged or older people. Pregnancy causes a temporary hernia of this sort in over half of pregnant women.

If you have no tendency toward a hiatal hernia and have had no difficulty with the rock, I doubt it will harm you, but don't expect too much from it. You can get much better results if you can lose excess body fat with a good dietary program. That doesn't mean one of the fad or crash diet efforts either.

Waterfowl program told

The program for the first International Waterfowl Symposium was recently announced. It will be held Feb. 4-6 in St. Louis, Mo. under the sponsorship of the Chicago-based Ducks, Unlimited, Inc., organization. Dr. Leslie Glasgow of Louisiana State University, serving as chairman of the event, said three major topics will be discussed at the meeting. Habitat and production, special problems and populations, regulations and harvest will be discussed by public and private agency representatives. Among the special problems to be considered are the lead shot controversy and the impact of chemical compounds and oil spills on waterfowl.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE HERSEY BAND'S ROSE CAMPAIGN

GOV. WALKER APPOINTS HERSEY BAND OFFICIAL AMBASSADORS

Illinois Governor Dan Walker issued a proclamation on August 2, 1974 congratulating the John Hersey High School Marching Band on their accomplishments and their invitation to participate in the Tournament of Roses Parade on Jan. 1, 1975. Governor Walker proclaimed the Hersey Band members Illinois' OFFICIAL AMBASSADORS to the 1975 Rose Parade.

This proclamation was presented to the Band members on behalf of the Governor by Representative Eugene Schlickman at the "Kick Off" of the fund raising project. The Guest of Honor at the program was Mr. Paul Bryan, President of the Tournament of Roses Committee who congratulated the Band on being the Illinois and Midwest representative to the parade.

STATE DONATES $15,900 TO ITS "AMBASSADORS"

The State of Illinois, through its Department of Business and Economic Development donated $15,900 to the Hersey Instrumental Association for the Hersey Band's appearance in the Tournament of Roses Parade. The money from the state was the result of the efforts of State Representative Eugene Schlickman who worked through the Governor's Office to obtain funds to assist Illinois Official Ambassadors in their trip to Pasadena. Only because the Hersey Band is the Official Representative of the State to the most prestigious parade in North America, did the State of Illinois consider financial support.

Many high school bands from Illinois have taken many trips to parades, pageants, competitions, and festivals in the past, but this is the first time in over 25 years that an Illinois high school band has been in the Tournament of Roses Parade.

Network television exposure to over 100 Million persons in the US makes this parade a very important and prestigious one.

The check from the State was presented to the band at the Mid-Suburban Superbowl Football game by Mr. Theodore Silverman, Acting Director of the Department of Business and Economic Development.

DISTRICT 214 BAND PROGRAMS IMPORTANT IN AREA SCHOOLS

The John Hersey High School Band is proud and fortunate to be representing the mid-west in the Tournament of Roses parade. Located in a High School District classified by many non-area judges as one of the finest, if not the finest district in the United States for high school bands, the Hersey Band wishes to extend their sincere thanks to Dr. Gilbert and the present and past school boards of District 214.

Each band in the District has represented the area in an outstanding manner. Wheeling, Prospect, Forest View, Elk Grove, Arlington, Rolling Meadows, Buffalo Grove and Hersey have represented the district in an outstanding manner throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. All have brought back trophies, awards and honors to the community.

In some of the schools, over 10% of the enrollment are in the band programs. Participation in the band programs requires interest, dedication, discipline, and the loss of many free hours by the students.

The accomplishments of the students and the success of the programs is a salute to the Administration, the Band Directors and the community.

Community Help and Hard Work

CONCERTS, CARNIVALS, CONTRIBUTIONS, RAFFLE, HELP RAISE OVER $52,000

In June the Hersey Instrumental Assn. made a commitment to the Hersey Band to support them in their acceptance of their invitation to the Tournament of Roses Parade. This support meant that the HIA would work to raise the estimated $50,000 needed for transportation and some of the lodging costs. Heading up the projects was HIA member Ralph Laich assisted by Carl Erickson and the entire parents organization.

After sifting through hundreds of suggestions for fund raising, the selected projects included the buying out of Mill Run Theater for a performance, a raffle with the winner receiving an all-expense trip to Rose Bowl, a carnival in co-operation with the Mt. Prospect J.C.'s, the annual candy sale, solicitation of community organizations, governmental agencies, and area business and industry firms.

The entire community pitched in and helped. Arlington Park invited the Band to play before the Labor Day feature race with solicitations being taken for the trip. Unfortunately their performance was stopped by the action of the musicians' union, but the band members appeared and the HIA solicited donations.

Businesses throughout the community assisted in many different ways. The Mt. Prospect Plaza Merchants sponsored an auction as well as helping the Mt. Prospect J.C.'s and the HIA in a carnival at the center. The Countryside Shopping Center sponsored a band concert. Twin Links Miniature Golf Links sponsored a golf tournament for the band, while McDonalds of Arlington Heights donated their gross receipts one afternoon while the band played in the rain. The Randhurst Merchants sponsored the band in two concerts during the Christmas season, and the band performed at a Chicago Fire Football game. The Fire Club also sponsored a ticket sale to the game.

The Robin Hood Restaurant donated the proceeds of an evening cocktail period to the band, while Ye Olde Butcher Shop gave a percentage of their sales.

The Deaf Ed Club of Hersey High School sponsored a Donkey Basketball game and the entire school supported Rose Week at Hersey.

Local service clubs and organizations as well as Women's Clubs and hundreds of persons and groups helped the Band in many ways.

The Band members made over 40 appearances in their efforts to raise funds. All during the fund raising, parents worked contacting various organizations, helping to sell raffle tickets, doing consumer surveys, soliciting help for the band and working on all the projects.

In five months, the bandmembers, parents, and the community raised over $52,000 for the "Trip to the Roses."

RAFFLE WINNERS ANNOUNCED

The winner of the Rose Bowl Trip which was the first prize in the HIA raffle was Mike Ruck of 704 Cedar Lane in Mt. Prospect. Mike gave the trip to his parents who will be spending 6 days in California visiting Disneyland, Universal Studios, attending the Tournament of Roses Parade, as well as the Rose Bowl Game.

The second prize winner selected the Microwave oven and was Jane Kurrack of Prospect Heights. Winning third prize was Mrs. Francine Everly who will have a Trash Compactor.

During the raffle sale, drawings for $50.00 were held and the winners were Norbert Jankowski of Chicago and Jeffery Haiduke of Elk Grove Village.

The highly successful raffle was headed by Bill Borst of the HIA who also handled the ticket sale for the Mill Run Theater benefit.

125 MILLION TO VIEW PARADE OF ROSES ON 3 TV NETWORKS

Rarely do events other than governmental or international crises get the television coverage which the Tournament of Roses Parade receives. In the Chicagoland area three stations will cover the complete parade as well as having pre-parade specials. WGN-TV will also carry a one hour high-light of the parade at 9:00 PM on New Year's night.

WBBM-TV Channel 2 will carry a half hour pre-parade special at 9:00 A.M. and the complete parade starting at 10:30 A.M.

WMAQ-TV Channel 5 will have a musical special starting at 9:45. This program will have been recorded on Sunday before the Hersey Band arrives. At 10:30 the NBC coverage of the complete parade begins.

WGN-TV Channel 9 will start their pre-parade Special at 9:30 which will be followed by complete parade coverage at 10:30. Channel 9's parade highlights can be seen at 9:00 P.M.

By checking the sequence of camera locations, it might even be possible to see the same float or unit 3 times by clever channel switching.

It is estimated that about 120 million viewers in North America will see the parade on television. This is in addition to the one and one half million who line the 5 1/2 mile parade route.

The area can be proud of its representation in this parade by the John Hersey Band of Arlington Heights.

VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HTS. AIDS BAND

The Village of Arlington Heights, by official action of the Board of Trustees, indicated their support of the Hersey High School Band and their appearance in the Tournament of Roses Parade with a contribution of $1,000. Village President Ralph Clarbour presented the check to HIA President Tom Applewhite at ceremonies preceding the Hersey-Rolling Meadows basketball game.

The Trustees appropriated the money for the Band's parade trip based on the fact that the Hersey Band is representing the Village and the community in the grandest of all parades. When the question of precedence of donations arose Trustee Durava stated, "When another Arlington Heights Band goes to the Tournament of Roses Parade, I will gladly support appropriations for that band also."

The Trustees applauded the Hersey Band for the musical and personal accomplishments as well as the recognition which they have gained for the school district and the community.

HERSEY BAND UNIT # 30 IN ROSE PARADE

In the Pasadena parade of 120 units, the Hersey High School Band with Color Guard Captain Elaine Turner and Drum Major Bruce Patterson will be unit number 30. Following the "Heros of the Alamo and the Battle of San Jacinto" float, the Hersey Band directed by Donald E. Caneva, assisted by James Rich will be the first high school band in the 1975 parade.

1975 PARADE THEME - HERITAGE OF AMERICA

With Hank Aaron, baseball's home run king, as Grand Marshal and a Theme of "Heritage of America" the 86th Tournament of Roses Parade appears to be the grandest of them all. With 55 all-flower floats, 23 bands, and over 200 equestrians, the parade at one point will completely fill the 5 1/2 mile parade route in Pasadena.

Awards will be made to 18 of the floats based on beauty, theme presentation, rose utilization, humor, animation, and presentation of the American Revolution Bicentennial theme. Among the float Judges is William H. Wills, manager of public relations of WGN Continental Broadcasting Co. of Chicago.

State changes format in golf for fall tourney

The annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Boys Golf Tournament series next fall will be conducted in the popular two-class format, Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh has announced.

Based upon the recommendation of the Golf Advisory Committee, and action taken by the IHSA Board of Directors at its Dec. 19 meeting, schools entering next fall's series will compete for Class A and Class AA honors. The IHSA will conduct class competition for boys next school year in football, golf, wrestling, basketball and track.

A total of 403 downstate and suburban schools entered last fall's boys golf tournament series at the district level. Of that total, 249 were Class AA schools and 154 were Class A schools. In the IHSA two-class format, schools with enrollments of 750 or less are Class A and schools with enrollments of 751 or more are Class AA.

The basic golf tournament structure will not be significantly altered. The number of schools competing at the district and sectional level will not change much overall. Sectional champions from both classes will participate in a singular state final tournament the weekend of Oct. 24-25 on the Orange and Blue Courses at the University of Illinois' Savoy layout.

The switch to class competition also will provide for greater participation, especially at the State Final Tournament. Each school will be allowed to enter six-player teams at all levels. The top four scoring players at the district and sectional level will be counted in the team scoring, but all six players will advance if the team qualifies. At the state final, the four lowest 18-hole rounds per day will be counted in the team scoring, rather than the four lowest 36-hole scores as has been the system in recent years. This change could produce significantly more keen competition for the team crowns.

In the Class AA structure, there will be 15 districts with 16-17 schools assigned and the top three scoring teams and top three scoring individuals who are not members of qualifying teams will advance to the sectional. There will be five sectionals of nine teams each, and the top three scoring teams and top three scoring individuals who are not members of qualifying teams will advance to the state final tournament. In addition, one team and top three individuals who are not members of the qualifying team from the Chicago Public League qualifying tournament will advance to the state final.

In the event of ties for team advancement and/or state final qualifying spots in either class, all teams tied for the qualifying spots will advance. In the event of ties for individual qualifying spots for advancement in the series, those players tied for the available spot(s) will meet in a sudden death play-off to determine who will advance.

Wheeling senior Tom Atchison has competed in freestyle and individual medley this season for the Wildcats.

Conant captures tournament title; Maine East, Maine West post wins

A Herald Staff Report

That's more like it!

After a so-so performance Friday and Saturday in holiday basketball play, area representatives rebounded with authority Monday night.

Conant wrapped up the Grayslake tournament title with a victory over Cary Grove, and Maine East and Maine West notched impressive wins in the Notre Dame event.

The Cougars of coach Dick Redlinger held on in a dramatic windup to nudge Cary Grove 34-32 for Grayslake honors. The losers had two shots in the closing six seconds but couldn't put the ball through.

Conant, which hit 14 of 38 shots in the win, shook off a coldshooting second period to pop in six quick points at the outset of the third stanza and pull ahead to stay.

The Cougars held a 12-6 lead after one period but found themselves in a 15-15 deadlock at the intermission. Then Paul Christiansen, Ron Sulaski, and Mark Pellegrino hit the three quick baskets that gave Conant some breathing room.

Cary Grove pulled to within one point at 33-32, but John Rudzina of Conant hit a free throw with 14 seconds left to set the final margin.

Conant was held to one field goal in the fourth period, but they cashed five free throws.

Sulaski collected 14 points and nine rebounds in the win and was the tournament's most valuable player. Mike Frisch tossed in nine points.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Conant	12	3	12	7-34
Cary Grove	6	9	4	13-32

Scratching for every basket, Maine East blitzed much taller Farragut, 22-13, during the last eight minutes. The Admirals' largest lead was nine, 44-35, when Flenard Edwards hit a jumper to open the period.

The Demons ran 10 straight on two field goals from Jeff Bergquist plus one apiece from Neil Clark, Mark Mahoney and Berns. Now they led, 45-44, at 5:28.

The lead changed three times. Mahoney's shot from the lane sandwiched around Farragut field goals by Anthony Parker and Edwards. Fouled by Berns, Edwards hit a three-point play at 3:41, giving the Admirals a 51-47 margin.

Berns retrieved two points but 6-foot-10 junior center Willie Wyatt got them back for Farragut at the line. Berns hit two free throws at 2:14 and Bob Feezor, on a Mahoney pass, tied the game, 53-53, at 1:39.

But Wyatt calmly sank two more free shots. Charlie Sellergren's eighth field goal for Maine at 0:57 was a solo effort when he stole the ball from Edwards.

Farragut ran its best play . . . The Turnover . . . and Maine had possession. Using timeouts at 0:38 and 0:09, they worked for Berns' winning shot, a 12-footer over Wyatt.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Maine East	10	13	12	22-57
Farragut	19	11	12	13-55

Happy New Year's Eve!
There's soul and joy in that seasonal greeting for Gaston Freeman and Paul McClelland. Their teams were victorious Monday night during the Notre Dame Holiday Tournament closing session.

And what brilliant triumphs!

"All I'm worried about now is Friday and getting ready for Maine South. This will be good preparation. They're one heckuva ballclub."

That was Freeman talking about his Maine West Warriors before they looked at highly rated Mt. Carmel in last evening's consolation championship.

As it turned out, Mt. Carmel did the watching when Maine, behind leading scorer Glen Heiden's 18 points, pulled a slow down on the Caravan and won, 45-42, with discipline tactics.

Not to be outshown, Maine East waited until the final second for Mark Berns to shoot his field goal that defeated Farragut, 57-55, for third place. Berns led all scorers with 21 points as the Demons erased an early fourth period nine-point deficit to win.

The Warriors' victory rates special treatment for one big reason: They weren't supposed to win. Maine East was given at least an even shot at defeating Farragut.

Freeman devised a superior game plan that dictated ball control and zone defense. The Warriors often had possession for longer than 30 seconds and held control for better than one minute as each of the first three periods ended.

But after fine passing, the basket eluded their eye in each period. A long field goal was missed once. Free throws failed to drop on two occasions.

So the Warriors led by just four, 32-28, into the final quarter. That's when Freeman's game plan looked so good because Mt. Carmel never attacked defensively.

Throughout three quarters, the Caravan waited . . . waited . . . waited . . . as if there was always tomorrow. But they never got unraveled defensively. They never attacked.

So it was Mt. Carmel's offense, with talented center Johnny B. Williams at the controls, which effected a 40-40 tie as 1:04 remained. Williams sank two short turn-around jumpers within 30 seconds. He scored 14 all night.

Twenty seconds clicked away before Bob Zuccarini hit twice at the line for a 42-40 West lead. Then Heiden's only free throws (he had eight field goals) made it four points.

Madly using timeouts, Caravan coach Bob Frasier employed three. But he was rewarded by just two free throws from Vic White.

John Clark, who missed first shots twice in the bonus, was accurate once in two attempts to ice the victory with 10 seconds remaining. Zuccarini scored 11 points, next high behind Heiden.

An important point: The Warriors were stingy with fouls as Mt. Carmel had just 10 free throws and made six. The Caravan wasn't in the second half bonus until 40 seconds remained.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Maine West	10	11	11	13-45
Mt. Carmel	10	8	10	14-42

LEADING THE LEADERS. Forest View's Dawn Powell presently carries the top bowling average in the Mid-Suburban Conference after three meets with 165. Her Falcon team also is tops with a seven-point lead over second-place Schaumburg, 26-19.

Maine West matmen rule holiday test

Maine West scooped up championship honors at Lake Park's holiday wrestling meet again Saturday, hooking up with Schaumburg to totally dominate the annual eight-team affair.

Last year coach Dick Carlini's Warriors were easy tournament winners. This year they edged the Saxons by only a dozen points, 91½ to 79½, while Romeville finished a distant third at 58, Geneva wound up fourth, Elgin fifth, Glenbard East sixth, the hosting Lancers seventh and Maine North rounded out the pack.

Maine and Schaumburg together accounted for seven individual championships and a huge batch of seconds, thirds and consolation titles. The Warriors were missing the services of a pair of regulars but hardly missed one at 138 where Dan Barringer stepped in to overwhelm the field.

Replacing veteran Brad Bonnavier, the smooth-working junior opened with a 15-2 mauling, then romped 17-0 in the semis and finished with a 5-2 win over Glenbard East's entry in the finals.

Also winning titles for Maine West were Tom Krauser at 98, Rob Krusinski at 105 and Roger Herrera at 155.

For the Saxons, championships were claimed by Terry Ruddy at 112, Joe Hannan at 119 and Ron Kuchnia at 132. With the exception of 105 pounds, every Schaumburg wrestler finished either first, second, third or with a consolation crown and no other member of coach Rick Gerz's crew lost more than one match.

One of the meet's key bouts was a semifinal 112-pound fray with Ruddy turning back Maine's Bryan Real, 11-4. Real rebounded with a second round pin to finish third.

At 119 Hannan hooked up with, and turned back another Warrior, Mike Tramel, 7-3. But the pendulum swung the other way at 155 when Herrera opened with a 7-3 win over Bowers en route to his title while Bowers had to come back up the other side for a consolation blue ribbon.

Other Maine West point earners included Lou DePasquale, a third at 126, Dan Cavazos a third at 145 and Dave Dziagwa a second at 185. Outside of Barringer, Krusinski was probably the most impressive Warrior performer with a 50-second pin and 6-0 and 15-0 shutouts during the tournament.

For the Saxons Mark Zeller, Pat Anders, and Bob Jones were consolation champs at 98, 126 and 167 respectively, Tom Sielski was second at 145 and Ken Jaffke runnerup at heavyweight and Mori Bello at 185 and Mark Mandel at 138 earned thirds.

Milton Richman

He was wearing that good-luck cap of his he loves so much and that treasured old overcoat he absolutely refuses to part with, his only other noticeable accessory being the remains of a cold cigar stub in his mouth.

It didn't matter to Art Rooney that he didn't have a light. He didn't need one. Not with the glow he had in his eyes.

Founder and president of the Pittsburgh Steelers and a member of the National Professional Football Hall of Fame along with everything else, Arthur J. Rooney had waited at least ten thousand years for this moment. He had struggled through hard times and lean years with hopelessly outclassed teams that would win only one or two games all season long. There was one year his ball club lost every single game on its schedule, but Art Rooney never lost hope, never gave up.

"We'll do better next year," he'd always say, somehow managing to mean it, too.

Now, finally, it was next year for Rooney. Less than four weeks before his 74th birthday, he had endured defeat and hardship long enough to see his Steelers reach the Super Bowl for the first time in their history. To be sure, they might still be beaten there by Minnesota's NFC champion Vikings, but at this very moment, Art Rooney had to be the happiest man in the world.

The majority of those outside the Steelers' quarters piled inside as soon as the door was opened, but one of them who didn't, spotted Rooney standing out of the way in the back.

"How do you feel about finally making the Super Bowl, Art?" he said to him.

"I'll go there like a big shot," said Rooney, managing to keep a straight face because if there is one thing he has never acted like in his life, it's a big shot.

"You know, you think about some of the years we had, some of the things that happened, and to tell you the truth, you wondered if you ever were gonna win," Rooney went on, dwelling for a moment on some of his Steelers' past misfortunes. "You wondered if you were ever gonna make it. Two years ago, I felt we had Miami beat in the AFC championship game until that fake punt."

During the first nine years Rooney had the Steelers, they failed to come up with a winning season. Eventually, in 1942, their 10th year in the NFL, they broke through with a 7-4 record. Rooney remembers how it was then.

"The pressure in the early years was not nearly as great as it is now," he said. "You didn't take the defeats as hard as you do now."

"You never show it," the fellow talking to Rooney said.

"This has been my life — sports," said the Steelers' owner. "I was a player, then a coach and you learn to accept the bad with the good. No matter how bad it got sometimes, you always lived in hopes that next year would be the year. What would've I said had we lost today? I'd have said, well, we'll get 'em next year."

Above all things, Rooney is a sportsman. When one of the officials in Sunday's ball game made a patently bad call in the second quarter, ruling Pittsburgh receiver John Stallworth out of bounds and costing the Steelers a touchdown, when instant replay clearly showed Stallworth caught the ball inside, Art Rooney wasn't among those who jumped on the official.

"I didn't see the play," he confessed, "but they tell me he was in bounds. Sometimes in a big game, you can get a bad call like that, but that's all part of the game."

Art Rooney's heart is as big as a bathtub.

He has loved football and horses all his life. A priest who knows him especially well confides Rooney has this one life-long habit. Whenever he wins any money at the track, he'll come back home and give out all that he won, plus more, to those people not as fortunate as he.

They just don't make 'em like Art Rooney anymore.

He's God's gift to the human race, a natural winner. That goes no matter how his team does against the Vikings two weeks from now.

Hockey finals at Woodfield

Finals will be held in three divisions today at the Gene Ubriaco Hockey Invitational, being staged at the Woodfield Hockey Center, 1130 E. Remington, in Schaumburg.

The Bridgeview Southwest Jets and Hoffman Estates Flyers decide the Mites title at 1 p.m. Des Plaines and Tri-City (St. Charles) play for the Squirts championship at 2:15. Streamwood will meet either Des Plaines or Arlington for the Pee-Wee title at 3:30 p.m.

Hockey teams from Naperville, Glenview, Westmont, Addison and Rolling Meadows have also competed. Ubriaco, formerly of the Chicago Black Hawks, is rink manager at Woodfield.

Forest View's bowlers compile 17-1 league mark

Forest View will take a commanding lead into the fourth night of bowling action next Tuesday.

The Falcons' 9-0 victory over Arlington prior to the holiday break lofted the defending Mid-Suburban Conference champs to a 17-1 record and 26 points.

Schaumburg struggled to defeat Conant, 5-4. The Saxons now are 12-6 in games won and lost with 19 total points and second place.

There's a three-way tie for third among Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Conant with 15 points apiece. Prospect stopped Palatine, 6-3, and Rolling Meadows defeated Fremd, 7-2.

Elk Grove occupies sixth place with 12 points despite the loss to Prospect.

Palatine, Fremd and Arlington share seventh place with 10 points each. The Cardinals fell from a much more lofty position because of the Forest View shut-out.

Hoffman Estates is in last place with four points.

Rolling the top games for their respective teams in the final week of the 1974 portion of the league were these girls:

Elk Grove—Jane Cross' 197, Forest View — Judy Pleickhardt's 194, Conant—Lindsey Dietz' 189, Schaumburg—Debi Bless' 189, Fremd—Pat Costello's 185, Prospect—Marilee Scaletta's 180, Palatine—Laura Larson's 175, Arlington—Elaine Moy's 173, Rolling Meadows—Judy Petersen's 169 and Hoffman Estates—Mary Porter's 136.

Forest View's Dawn Powell carries the highest average going into next week's play with a 165. Behind her are Arlington's Bonnie Bookwood (163), Fremd's Lauren Zikes (161), Schaumburg's Dinise Huzar (160), Palatine's Paula Margosian (160) and Elk Grove's Jean Cross (155).

Niles East's Sher tops Rich Central gym meet

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The Rich Central Gymnastics Tournament, held in two sessions Saturday, gathered together the best all-around men from 28 schools in the Chicagoland area.

Neil Sher, Niles East's ace, won the championship with an overall score of 8.0.

Sid Drain, the head coach at Maine West who had two men entered, said, "It was a really enjoyable meet for the competitors. The concept of the meet is very low pressure because they are just competing for scores and there is no compiling of team standings."

The 56 all-around men were broken up into two groups. One for gymnasts with scores over 6.5 and a second for those below 6.45. The top qualifiers came back in the evening for the final rounds.

"The quality of the people in this meet was very good," Drain said. "The top 10 finishers were very good all-around men and the rest of the field was bunched pretty close together."

"It's a long day, though, because the competitors have to run through 10 routines."

Drain's all-around men, Mike Swiatek and Pat Dent, failed to reach the finals as Dent averaged 3.95 and Swiatek 4.65.

Tom Sokalski, the coach at Niles East, said of Sher, "Neil hit his routines extremely well. But then he had to win this meet. From top to bottom I can't remember seeing the strength that was in this meet."

Hersey's two all-around men, Kevin and Danny Muenz, fared quite well with Kevin finishing second by compiling 78 points through the prelims and finals and Danny taking fifth.

Schaumburg coach Gary Larocco, while not placing a gymnast in the finals, was not as impressed with the field as most of the other coaches.

"I don't think you could find another meet that had the quality of all-around competition that's in this one," Larocco said. "But I don't think the field was as strong this year as it has been in the past. I think there were more top quality gymnasts in the field last year."

Steve Ninow, Schaumburg's entry in the meet, had his best effort in the free exercise with a 6.2 but didn't score well enough in the other events to make a run for the championship.

Meadows 4th at Mattoon; wins one, then drops two

Hard-rebounding St. Ignatius rallied from a halftime deficit to trim Rolling Meadows in a semifinal contest at Mattoon's Holiday Basketball Tournament Saturday, 61-56, and kept right on scrapping all the way into a meet championship the following day.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs dropped another contest to the host school Saturday to finish in fourth place at the eight-team gathering.

"They really hurt us on the boards," explained Meadows mentor Ken Arneson after his team had seen a 36-33 midgame lead over the Wolves dissolve into a 44-44 standoff after three periods and a five-point deficit by game's end.

John Hogan paced Rolling Meadows in scoring with 18 and had support from Steve Breitbeil with 14, Scott Green with 12 and Tom Holt with 10.

The Mustangs fell to Mattoon the following day 66-56. Termed by Arneson as the quickest team he's seen this year, the Green Wave rummed and gunned their way into an opening 10-2 advantage and never relinquished control.

Meadows stayed within range — about five points back — until the final quarter when the hosts spurred into 62-48 advantage. The Mustangs cut that gap to eight but finally ran out of time.

Again there were four Meadows players in double figures, including Hogan with 16, Breitbeil with 15, Green with 11 and Holl with 10. Holl and Hogan were acknowledged for their efforts by being voted to the all-tournament team.

At the same time St. Ignatius was going on to whip Stewardson-Strasburg 74-71 for the tourney championship.

Hoffman wrestlers roll over Driscoll

Hoffman Estates coach Angelo Testone inserted a raft of new faces into his line-up and still pulverized a visiting Driscoll team 51-9 in non-conference wrestling action Saturday.

Rookies Bob Groeble, Joe Saunders and Tim Lebert all came up with impressive wins while helping the Hawks post their second dual meet victory in as many weeks. Groeble smashed his 105-pound foe 17-0, Saunders at 138 forged a second round pin and Lebert at 185 took just 1:17 to stick his opponent.

Also winning for Hoffman were Darcy Rice (98) by a big 14-0 count, Terry Sopkin (119) by default, Dan Kaufman (126) with a first round fall, Mike Brewka (132) by a 6-1 count, Chad McCreary (145) with a pin at 5:13 and Rudy Medina by forfeit.

COMING THROUGH with the second highest game in the final night of bowling before the holiday layoff was Judy Pleickhardt of Forest View with a 194. Her team leads the league with a 17-1 record.

Furlong, Strutz gain mat titles in Erb Memorial

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Hersey veterans Mark Furlong and Eric Strutz battled their way to individual championships while leading the Huskies to the best area showing at Glenbrook South's Russ Erb Memorial Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

Hersey wound up fifth among the 16 teams in attendance, packed in with five other units scrambling for second place behind triumphant Glenbrook North. Buffalo Grove, meanwhile, came home ninth, Arlington placed 10th and Wheeling finished 13th.

Furlong, at 138, and Strutz, at 145, were the only two local grapplers among six entered in the finals to come out on top. Furlong opened with a 7-2 decision, squeezed past his next foe 9-8 and then registered a superior win in the semi-finals to set up a showdown with Spartan standout Buzz Moore.

Furlong then toppled Moore 3-1 for the title.

Strutz notched a pin and 9-3 and 5-2 wins leading up to a championship bout with Buffalo Grove's Jerry Bickner and he bested Bickner 5-2 to take over the title won by Drew Whitfield of the host school last year.

Whitfield meanwhile was up at 155 pounds where he was becoming the meet's only two-time champ by outclassing Jeff Schmidt of GBN 8-2.

Schmidt and Moore were among four Spartans advancing to the finals and they represented the less successful half. Leon Garris at 167 bumped Carl Robbins of the Wildcats 7-3 in their championship tilt and Frank Gangware clubbed out a 6-2 decision for heavyweight laurels.

Glenbrook North wound up with 80½ points to assume the crown earned by non-returning Addison Trail in 1973. Evanston was second at 65, Niles East was three points away in third, Barrington was another five points back in fourth and the Huskies finished half a point behind the Broncos.

Other Mid-Suburban grapplers making their way to the finals in addition to Furlong, Strutz, Bickner and Robbins were Cardinal entrants John Preissing at 126 and Jim Stanczak at 185. Stanczak absorbed his first setback of the year after taking a bye, pinning and winning 4-0 leading into the finals.

Greg Gulsvig, one of a set of twins representing Libertyville in the heavier weights, outlasted Stanczak in a 12-9 championship thriller.

Other area matmen claiming medals down the line included Bison Terry McCann with a fourth place finish and Card Steve Scott with a red consolation championship at 98, Arlington's Dan Weber with a fifth and Grove's Tim Foley a red consolation win at 105, Huskie Dan Sorensen fifth, Bison Jim Brough red consolation and Cardinal Gary Holub white consolation winners at 112.

Rich Wilhelm of BG was third at 119 while Dan Lococo of Hersey was fifth and Bison Greg Thomson a red consolation winner at 126. Huskie Gary Hart claimed red consolation honors at 132 and Bison Doug Browning duplicated the feat at 138.

At 155 Buffalo Grove newcomer Andy King came up with a red consolation title and Lee Weicz of the Redbirds claimed a similar prize at 167. Wildcat Ed Wargo was fourth at 185 and Kirk Kennedy of Arlington earned a white consolation award at heavyweight.

Maine North captures 3rd holiday tourney

by PAUL SVOBODA

Suffering a 63-59 loss after a tight contest with Schaumburg, the Norsemen went ahead to defeat Steinmetz 65-60 last Saturday night, securing a third-place finish in the Luther North Tournament.

From the opening tip-off, to the closing seconds, the Norsemen gained control of game, and Steinmetz teammates found that it was increasingly difficult to keep in range of their opponents.

Penetrating the ball inside Steinmetz' zone defense, North could effectively score good percentage shots from many parts of the field. Defensively, the Norsemen used their usual man-to-man strategy to reduce Steinmetz' scoring opportunities, and therefore always remain with a substantial lead.

This form of strategy paid off as Dexter Brown finished with 27 points for the Norsemen, and John Svoboda contributed 13 rebounds doing an excellent job under the boards.

Good performances by Jim Karas and George Kaufman also had an influence on the game, but an overall Norsemen effort was mainly responsible for the Norsemen victory.

The previous night left little opportunity for the varsity cagers. They confronted Schaumburg, and faced the only loss of the Tourney.

Kaufman with 20 points, and Brown with 19 were major assists to the Norsemen, as they put the game together offensively.

A big break for the Norsemen occurred during Thursday's game against Prosser, when "big man" Tom Meggers lost the ball, and turned it over to North late in the fourth quarter.

On a five-second drill, Jim Karas broke to the basket for a lay-up, sending the game into overtime. The great Norsemen comeback was again visible in the overtime period — Abraham displayed excellent shooting, and Brown sank four from the foul line, making it a 70-66 victory.

North's sloppy defense showed during the first quarter, as Prosser surged ahead, encouraged by Meggers' outside shooting.

The game really swung in North's favor in the fourth quarter. The Norsemen defense picked up considerably, and combined with good offensive work by Kaufman and Abraham, the team put the game away.

Kaufman's superb offensive work earned him 23 points and 10 rebounds, while Abraham contributed 15 points and Karas hit for 11.

Meggers ended the game with 48 points for Prosser, and contributed 24 rebounds.

Maine North opened the tournament last Monday, with a game against St. Mel. The Norsemen got off to a slow start, but St. Mel offered little opposition. As a result, North continuously dominated the game, and scored easily to triumph a 70-48 victory.

Speaking of . . .

Reasons to celebrate

by KAY MARSH

If you believe all the dire economic forecasts and prophecies of doom and gloom, you may be expecting a dreary new year ahead. But take heart: Bill Chase has, as usual, come up with a full Calendar of Annual Events, subtitled "Special Days, Weeks and Months in 1975." And even the briefest scan indicates that there will be plenty for you and me to celebrate next year.

As is traditional, the first week of the new year is Weeks' Week, designed to call your attention "to all the weeks of importance in the forthcoming year and inform the public how they can participate, enjoy and aid each week that they consider worthy."

I'M NOT SURE just which weeks (or days or months) you'd consider worthy. I'm always glad to see such old favorites as National Procrastination Week (March 2-8) and National Hostility Week (April 15-19). (The former encourages us "to put off till tomorrow everything that needn't be done today; the latter sponsors demonstration exercises in "how to get along in a hostile world...and overcome hostility at home." But since writing on the Calendar is something of an annual tradition for this column, perhaps you'd rather read about some new events and dates mentioned in the 18th edition of this fun-to-read reference work.

As usual, there are numerous events designed to honor (and promote the sale of) different foods. New this year, for instance, are a Hoagie Competition and Eat (April 16) and Pickle-Tickle Time (Sept. 18-27). And I'll certainly be right in there for the Ramp Festival on April 27 — if, that is, I can find a ramp, which is billed as the "sweetest-tasting, vilest smelling plant that grows."

There are always various sports events to observe. New listings include the National Junior Frisbee Championships, scheduled for Sept. 25, and Canada's Bathtub Race on July 22, billed as the "zaniest water race in the world." Though I imagine that Mackinac Island's Front Porch Saunter on Aug. 17 is more my kind of sport, since the sponsoring World Sauntering Society specifies that speed is not a factor.

But perhaps you're looking for new events of more general interest. Well, our area's own Sycamore Pumpkin Festival is listed this year for Oct. 25-31. And I certainly plan to observe such special days as National Compliment Day on Jan. 15 and C.O.S.T. Day on June 30 (sponsored by Citizens Opposing Soaring Taxes). New this year, too, are Watergate Day (June 17) and Be Nast-y Day (March 8). The latter honors cartoonist Thomas Nast's exposure of political corruption and the Tweed Ring, inviting you to "Be Nast-y Today: Do whatever you can to expose corruption wherever it be." However, my favorite new event of the year arrives May 10: Children Should Be Seen and Not Heard Sometimes Day. Its purpose is to "provide the parents of rowdy, irrepressible, verbomaniacs a day for rare, riotous respite."

There are numerous new individual birthdays included in this year's Calendar, honoring persons of achievement ranging from ragtime pianist Scott Joplin (Nov. 24) to Gerald Rudolph Ford and Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller (July 14 and July 8 respectively). In honor of the Bicentennial, the 1975 Calendar also lists birthdays of numerous signers of the Declaration of Independence and other assorted patriots.

IT'S ALWAYS interesting to see what women of achievement are added to the Calendar birthday listings this year. New additions this year include writer Jane Austen (Dec. 16); Minnie Maddern Fiske, actress and stage manager; and Mary Ashton Livermore, reformer and woman's suffrage leader, both Dec. 19; and writer Ida M. Tarbell, Nov. 5. New, too, are days honoring American abolitionists Harriet Tubman on March 10 and Sojourner Truth on Nov. 26.

More generally, you may want to celebrate the newly listed Women Appreciation Month in March. However, the big red letter event of 1975 lasts the whole year. It's International Women's Year, Jan. 1-Dec. 31, authorized by both a resolution adopted by the United Nations General Assembly and by a Presidential proclamation. The latter states in part, "In observing International Women's Year, we should emphasize the role of women in the economy, their accomplishments in the professions, in Government, in the arts and humanities, and in their roles as wives and mothers."

Since that includes you, that makes this your year, too. Hope it's a very happy and a very special one for you and yours.

Sheffield ORT sets square dance and chicken dinner

Sheffield Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) will hold a square dance and late night chicken dinner at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 11 at the Vogeli Barn in Hoffman Estates.

The cost is $10 per couple, and proceeds go to the ORT scholarship program and health project. For more information readers may contact Mrs. Karen Simon, president, 882-9144, or Mrs. Bonnie Kaufman, reservations, 882-0621 by next Monday.

Women's American ORT supports a world-wide vocational education and training program with more than 700 installations on five continents.

Legal aid for abused child provided by new program

A grant of $67,903 has been awarded the Child Advocate Association (CAA), a private, non-profit organization, by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to be used to provide various services to abused children, including legal aid.

The grant was announced by Eugene Eidenberg, commission chairman, who said it would be used initially at four area hospitals to evaluate and improve their present child abuse procedures. The four are Illinois Masonic Medical Center, Rush-Presbyterian - St. Luke's Medical Center, Mt. Sinai Hospital Center and Children's Memorial Hospital. Cook County and hospitals at the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois will join the program later.

Child Advocate staff members will work with the child abuse teams in the four hospitals to develop new treatment alternatives, said Aaron Kramer, CAA president. He mentioned such possibilities as family counseling, Parents Anonymous, education in nutrition and child care and encouraging development of neighborhood resources.

PRIVATE VOLUNTEER attorneys will be placed in each of the participating hospitals. They will prepare cases on behalf of each abused child, prevent evidence of abuse in Juvenile Court and after disposition of the case, remain in a position to enforce the rights to treatment and due process of children named wards of the state.

"The significance of this program is that the children themselves — the victims of abuse — for the first time are being offered quality legal assistance," said Eidenberg. "In the past, public defenders represented their parents, state's attorneys represented the state and the children were adrift in a legal wasteland in the middle."

"The Child Advocate Association's program will insure that the best interests of the abused, neglected or dependent child are represented in court and that his needs are looked after."

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services will provide support and assistance to CAA in this program.

Honeymoon in Jamaica

Following their Nov. 30 wedding and a two-week honeymoon at Montego Bay, Jamaica, Karen F. Krien and her bridegroom, James P. Perrone, are residing in an apartment at International Village in Schaumburg.

Daughter of Herbert H. Krien, Arlington Heights, Karen and James, son of Mrs. Mary Perrone, Hammond, Ind., and Peter Perrone, Hoffman Estates, were married in a 2:30 p.m. double ring service in St. Hubert's Church in Hoffman Estates. A reception for 125 guests was held at the Lancer Steak House in Schaumburg.

Karen's maid of honor was Kristin Freid of Park Ridge, and her bridesmaids were her sisters-in-law, Paulette and Lisa Perrone, Hoffman Estates. Attending James as best man was Arthur Grass of Hammond. Walter Pisarski, Streamwood, was usher.

A graduate of Forest View High School, Karen is employed by Motorola in Schaumburg, and James, who studied at Indiana University, is with Industrial Steel Service Center, Addison.

Marking belongings, photos good idea

Dear Dorothy: When parents die, there comes the unpleasant task of sorting out belongings, selling the home and so on. Until that time, one doesn't realize how little he knows about the history of the furniture, silver and so on. One becomes aware of the questions that should have been asked too late. For this reason, I've marked all the sentimental and important things in our home so our son will know. I used a metal engraver on metal objects and a permanent marker for other things. I've also made sure photographs have dates, names and other pertinent information. It will also help me to remember in years to come!

—Mary Olfert

Good idea! I'm ashamed to say we have many old photos, but names are not on them and I can't recall them. For those who scoff at the sentimental, they need to remember it's wise to list all valuables in case of fire or theft.

Dear Dorothy: Your article on low calorie sauces intrigued me. Here's how I've made mine for years.

Heat low calorie milk in a double boiler until bubbly on top, thicken with cornstarch dissolved in a little water. Continue stirring and add salt and pepper to taste. Grated cheese or other ingredients may be added as desired. It keeps piping hot in the double boiler until ready to serve.

—Agnes Luman

Dear Dorothy: Occasionally, I'm simply not able to put a cork back into a bottle. Is there a trick to this?

—Anna Majors

Slice a tiny bit out of the small end (in the center), and the cork will compress to a fittable size.

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: In regard to the blooming of the senecioidea, it blooms when it's pot-bound. So the rule is, "Don't repot" and eventually it will bloom.

—Mildred B. North

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Newlyweds live in Sicily

An apartment in Sicily will be home for Maryjo Kathryn O'Neill and her bridegroom, Robert P. Helkowski, until August 1976. Bob, a Seabee, is stationed with the U.S. Navy in Sigonella.

Maryjo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. O'Neill, 2519 N. Brighton Pl., Arlington Heights, and Bob, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Helkowski, Lindenhurst, Long Island, N.Y., met when she was 5 years old and Bob, 6. They grew up living just around the corner from each other, and although Maryjo was living in Arlington Heights when Bob's Lindenhurst High School class held its senior prom, she flew back to New York for the affair.

SHE ALSO returned to New York for their Nov. 30 wedding held in St. Agnes Cathedral in Rockville Center, Long Island. The service was followed by a reception for 109 guests in a Baldwin, L.I., restaurant and a week's honeymoon at Nevele Country Club, Monticello, N.Y. They left for Sicily on Dec. 8.

The bride's sister, Robyn Mary, served as maid of honor for the double ring service, and bridesmaids were Sharon Yakes, Rolling Meadows, and Maureen Maguire and the groom's sisters, Diane and Linda Helkowski, Lindenhurst. Junior bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Kerry Lovelock, the Bronx, N.Y., and Marygrace Otterbine, Keyport, N.J. Mark Haudenschild, Lindenhurst, was best man, and the bride's brother, Robert Jr., the groom's cousin, John Chabuske, New Hyde Park, N.Y.; and Robert Bernhard and Gary Happick, Lind-enhurst, were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Helkowski

A graduate of Hersey High School Maryjo earned a degree in food management from Harper College.
